HOW THEY WILL MARCH

Formation of the Labor Day Parade.

A CONTEST FOR THE FLAG

All the Unions Want It, and Are Going to Have a Big Turnout—Contestants Preparing for the Athletic Events. Many Strangers Will be in Town.

Labor Day parade will be one of the largest ever seen in the city if indications point to anything, and the formation will be as follows:

Police.
Haines' Military band.
American Flint Glass Workers.
Local No. 9, kilnmen.
Local No. 18, dippers.
Carpenters' Brotherhood.
Typographical Union.
Local No. 19, turners and handlers.
Local No. 14, pressers.
Local No. 17, odd men, kiln drawers.
Local No. 15, decorators.
Local No. 16, saggarmakers, helpers.
Local No. 22, mouldmakers.
Local No. 19, packers.
Local No. 12, jergemen, dishmakers.
Local No. 21, claymakers.
Stone masons.
Laborers' Federal Union.
Bricklayers.
Mayor, council and city officials in carriages.
Fire Department.

Chief Marshal Stewart announces that all aides and marshals of locals will report to him mounted, the colors to be chief marshal, red, aides, white, and marshals of divisions blue.

The arrangements for transportation to the park after the parade is over are complete. Superintendent Andrews states that he will have five cars in the Diamond immediately after the parade and will be in a position to carry everybody to the picnic grounds. He requests that everybody take their time and not make a grand rush for the cars or endeavor to crowd on after the coaches are filled, as, owing to the weak condition of the East End trestle it will not be well to pack the cars to their utmost capacity. The five cars will return to the Diamond after their trip to the loop and take the balance of the crowd. If it is found necessary other cars will be taken off the regular runs and pressed into the excursion service. Conductors will be added to the regular force, and nobody will be disappointed in being unable to reach the fare box.

The subject of closing business houses on Monday has been generally discussed over the city, and most of them will close their doors. It is learned that the majority will make the move in that direction at noon. The banks will do no business in the afternoon, and the barbers will quit at the same time.

There will be a contest for the silk flag given the largest number of men in line, and several unions are after it with a vengeance. The pressers are making every effort to get their force in line, and the kilnmen will have a large turnout. As these two bodies number in the neighborhood of a thousand some thing of the magnitude of the procession can be imagined. Other unions, made up of smaller numbers, hope to win as the conditions under which the flag is given says the proportionate membership. All the arrangements for the picnic and sports have been made and a great crowd is expected. The program, as published in the News Review a few days ago, will be carried out, and all who go to the East End are assured of a splendid day with plenty of enjoyment. Some of the contestants have been training for weeks and expect to make a good showing. All who will take part are enthusiastic, and promise their best efforts. It is thought that a great many strangers will be in town although no organizations except those from the city will participate in the parade.

Among the most important features of the sports will be a prison bar match, an English game, between two picked teams one from this city, the other from Wellsville. There are fourteen men in each team, and each one must be a sprinter who can make good time. The game is very popular in the Staffordshire district, and is liked by all the potters in Trenton who know well how to play it. This contest has excited a great interest among the potters, and was arranged for the fair ground in Wellsville, but postponed until Labor Day. Already $25 has been placed ready on the result, and arrangements made for the prizes. The two men who first make captures will be each rewarded with a ribbon, while every member of the winning team will be presented with a costly silk handkerchief. The two sides have been well selected and a good contest is anticipated. The teams are:

Liverpool—Jim Darragh, senechor, Bob Maxwell, Lou Hendricks, Albert Hendricks, Herbert Smith, W. Walbanks, Tom Wilson, Bob Webb, Harry Mulligan, Ambrose Massey, James Massey, Abe Irwin, Fred Hume.

Wellsville—Joe Webb, senechor, Jack Tarr, Joe Gibbons, Joe Hume, Ab Hume, Tom Alcock, Tom Ford, Tom Cooper, Smoky Johnston, Jeff Patterson, Tom Potts, Herbert Machin, Arthur Shaw.

Will Close.

The merchants have decided this afternoon to close their places of business at 12 o'clock noon on Monday.

STILL UNCERTAIN.

Crookery Buyers Are Not Willing to Stock Up.

Thomas Smith, the well known salesman for Wallace & Chetwynd, and who also represents Sebring's and the Globe potteries, returned this morning from a trip to the east, having been in the principal cities and doing what most of the drummers are compelled to do now in order to hold their trade, three weeks work in two weeks.

Mr. Smith stated to a News Review reporter this morning that he had done fairly well, but found buyers not so anxious as on former trips. They are still uncertain as to what the outcome of the new tariff bill will be, and believe they will not prosper long. None of them are willing to purchase a stock of ware and run the risk of selling it at the present rates, and they are simply ordering what they need for their immediate demands. A letter from a Harrisburg firm encloses a small order but nothing in comparison to the size usually given by the firm at this season of the year. The letter from the dealer speaks in uncertain tones regarding business and says they must await the outcome of the change. So it goes everywhere and even the largest crockery dealers will not run any risks.

Mr. Smith met T. R. Bradshaw, of the West End pottery and the representative of the Chelsea on his travels and both said they were doing as well as could be expected.

One Result.

Dealers in playing cards in this city have received a circular notifying them that as a result of the recent Gorman bill a duty of two cents per pack has been placed on playing cards of all kinds and that they must send to L. H. Ohliger, internal revenue collector at Cleveland, enough two cents stamps for all the cards they have in stock. The dealers kick as they say it means a loss of two cents a deck to them, it being in their opinion unjust to put up the price on the pasteboards. The fine for the violation of section 38 of the new law which went into effect on Aug. 27, is $50 in case the seller does not affix a stamp and cancel it with his signature and the date. As a well known druggist remarked this morning: "The idea of taxing playing cards is preposterous. It was more like the act of some woman's rights association than a set of intelligent representatives of the people."

The Coming Game.

The Standard and Knowles new end pottery base ball teams have placed a forfeit of $1 each with W. C. Davidson and tonight will put up the balance of the $5 forfeit. The game is to be played on Sept. 19, on the West End grounds and is for $25 a side. The Standard team is composed of Davis, McNicol, Fitzgerald, White, Appleby, Jack Gill, Ferguson, Dimmerling, Hickey, Hester, McNutt, Lynch, Walker, Ed O'Hanlon, Jim O'Hanlon, Ed Smith and Lester. The New End players are "Chick" Reark, Tom Twaddle, Frank Grosscross, Arthur Bloor, John Weingartner, Tom Lounds, Willard Bowman, W. L. Taylor, W. T. Green, William Hickey and Ed Tolbert. No little money will change hands on the result of the game.

Thought he Was a Burglar.

It is related that a well known man, who does not live so very far from the Diamond, went home with the skeleton driven from his feast by the fumes of something stronger than water, and fearing to waken his wife tried the back door. She heard him, and thinking it was a burglar yelled so hastily that a neighbor ran to her assistance. In the meantime the husband got lost in the back yard, and was found by the kindly disposed neighbor who put him to bed.

GAVE THE POST A FLAG

The Woman's Relief Corps Surprise the Veterans.

THE SPEECH OF PRESENTATION

As It Was Delivered By Mrs. Myers. Ice Cream and Cake in Great Quantities—Excellent Addresses by Comrades. An Enjoyable Occasion.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW The members of General Lyon post, No. 44, held the largest meeting of the year last night, every seat in the large hall being filled.

After the regular order of exercises was observed the comrades were treated to a genuine surprise by the appearance of the Ladies' Relief Corps in the ante room, and a formal demand for admission. Officer of the Day E. G. Croxall was instructed to invite them into the hall, but he prefaced the performance of duty by escorting Miss Florence Jessop to the organ. The ladies followed in regular order, opened about the altar, the head of the column halting at the chair of the commander. In the rear were Mrs. J. A. Myers and Mrs. T. O. Timmons, bearing a beautiful and costly silk flag, which was formally presented to the post. Mrs. Myers using the following eloquent words on behalf of her organization:

"A nation's power is shown by the deference to her flag in foreign ports, but a nation's honor, by the degree of pride and reverence paid her flag by her own citizens. The time was when the flag of Spain, of England and of Mexico floated over and had the allegiance of portions of this grand country of ours, but the forms and manners of government of all these nations were gallant and obnoxious to a free thinking, liberty loving people, who, in the face of what appeared to be insurmountable difficulties laid the foundation for our glorious union. Thoughts of a new Republic, and a fitting symbol for it went hand in hand, and the result is, our beautiful red, white and blue.

"If this emblem was for the young men of our city I would tell them that a third of a century ago the people of nearly one-third of our land tore down, trampled on and refused to recognize or claim allegiance under this flag. I would tell them how, ere the first shot of treason had ceased to reverberate 'from ocean to ocean,' the noble hearted and loyal men of the north left the farm and the shop, the counter and the desk, bid a hasty adieu to mothers, wives and children, and offered themselves in defense of this flag and their country's honor. I would tell them how these brave men toiled through rain and sleet, slept on the cold damp ground, lived on ill fare poorly cooked, starved in prison pens, faced shot and shell, of the thousands who returned wrecks of their former selves, and of the thousands who died in defense of this flag. I would tell them further of what they owe to those of the brave defenders who remain, and of their duty and privilege to maintain their glorious heritage, but I am not talking of them, and what I have said is of you and your comrades.

"As a member of the Woman's Relief Corps, I am commissioned to present to General Lyon post, Grand Army of the Republic, as a token of our high esteem, and a recognition of your valor, this silken emblem, Old Glory. As you freely gave the best years of your life to preserve it unsullied and brighten its lustre, and have made it honored and respected all over the civilized world, I charge you to take it and continue to love and protect it, and to teach your children and children's children that all its hues were born in heaven and that the red should always remind them of the bright, warm blood that was shed in its defense; that the white should remind them of the purity of the devotion due their country and their flag; the blue of their duty to their God and their brave defenders; and the golden stars of the glory and credit due the Union soldier of 1861-5. Comrades, into your hands we give this flag and know that today you stand ready, as in days of old, to guard it with your life, and that you will never permit it to be insulted or trampled in the dust."

Commander Todd received the beautiful emblem on behalf of the post, and the ladies retired. But they did not stay long. They had another surprise, this time a bountiful supply of ice cream and cake, and the boys who wore the blue and starred in prison pens proved that they had not forgotten their short ration experiences. D. J. Smith was invited to say a few words, and in response made the hall resound with a ringing speech, eulogizing the ladies and paying them any number of pretty compliments. Comrades McCoy, B. C. Simms, N. M. Simms and Croxall had each a few eloquent words to say, while Comrade McGraw related a touching incident of his experience after being liberated from a rebel prison and first seeing the stars and stripes. As the Sons of Veterans were present Captain Rose made a brief but appropriate speech which was followed with a song of two the whole closing with "Auld Lang Syne." The comrades of the post were delighted with the action of the ladies, and all are loud in their praises of the Relief Corps, and desire to publicly thank them for the beautiful and appropriate gift. The post decided to go to the National encampment in their special cars on the 5 o'clock train Tuesday morning, Sept. 11, in order to take part in the parade which starts between 9 and 10 o'clock. All comrades of the post are invited, and will make arrangements accordingly. W. H. S.

THERE WILL BE A SUIT.

The Treasury Shortage Cannot Otherwise Be Settled.

A resident who should know something about the matter says that the shortage in the treasurer's office will not be settled without a suit. The bondsmen and Prosecutor Speaker do not agree upon an important point involving quite a sum, and the aid of the court will be called to effect a settlement. Meanwhile nothing is learned of that promised report from New Lisbon, and this part of the county is as much in the dark as ever.

A Pleasant Surprise.

A party of friends to the number of about 25 called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Jessop, Basil avenue, last night, for a surprise party, and succeeded in a most enjoyable manner. The evening passed very pleasantly, Miss Florence Jessop playing several selections on the violin, accompanied by Mrs. Jessop on the organ. An elegant supper was served and it was not until midnight that the merriment ceased.

Among the guests were Mrs. Charles Wyllie, of Allegheny, formerly of this city, Mr. and Mrs. B. Surles, of New Brighton and Mrs. Cramer, son and daughter, of Conneaut, N. Y. Mrs. Wyllie left this morning for her home, and Mrs. Cramer and children departed for a visit in Steubenville.

A Commonwealer on Wednesday.

J. H. Randall, a commonwealer who contracted the Coxey fever and recently marched an army to Washington, has been engaged by the local Populists to deliver a speech in the Diamond next Wednesday evening. Meantime the friends of Coxey in this city are not so extravagant in their claims as they were a few weeks ago, and the "enthusiasm" the general talks about in his $100 speeches seems to be unknown here. Randall will also speak in Wellsville.

An Imaginary Contract.

A stranger who said he was here to bid on the new bridge stated today that no one knew when the contract would be let, but he had been instructed to return in 30 days, and hear the ultimatum. When questioned about the matter J. E. McDonald said he knew nothing about it. There had been no contractors here in the last few days, and their company had done nothing whatever with this one, they knew nothing of him.

E. S. Raff Is a Candidate.

A special from Youngstown says that E. S. Raff is a candidate for congress before the Democratic convention, and was in that place looking up support yesterday. Raff is the Canton banker who can use a barrel of money in the campaign and never miss it should such a course become necessary. A man named Burton will be the candidate put out by Mahoning county.

Sunday School Election.

At the business meeting of the First Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, held last evening, A. W. Ferran was elected superintendent; B. H. Hodgson, assistant; Miss Nellie Simms, secretary; Frank McIntyre, treasurer; George Garner, chorister, and Stella McNutt, pianist.

Doctor Hobbs Ill.

Dr. W. A. Hobbs has been confined to his bed for several days, quite ill, and was forced to postpone his trip to New York city until Tuesday morning next. With his wife he will go to Alliance Monday evening and they will leave there the following day.

—Mrs. M. E. Gaston, of Washington, is a guest at the home of Dr. W. R. Clark. Miss Mary Pringle, of Morristown, will spend the winter with the doctor, her uncle.

HIGH AND GRAND TENTS

Of the Rechabites to Meet Next Week.

EAST LIVERPOOL WILL ENTERTAIN

But Wellsville is the Place of Meeting—Temperance Advocates From all Over the Country Will Be Here—They Will Have a Parade and Many Meetings.

Next week this city and Wellsville will entertain the state and national lodges of the Rechabites, and several hundred visitors are expected to be present.

While the conventions are in reality called for Wellsville this city is being widely advertised throughout the country as the meeting point. The Silver Cord, the official organ of the Rechabites, contains a long article about the gathering and states that all national delegates should be in East Liverpool by next Saturday evening. The Ohio tent convenes in Wellsville next Thursday and the high tent on the following Monday. A mass temperance meeting will be held on Thursday evening, a public entertainment will be given Friday night, and a social will make merry the delegates Saturday evening. On Sunday a morning meeting will be held in Wellsville and another in this city in the afternoon. Sunday night the delegates will make the most of a gospel temperance gathering in the Grand Opera House, where the ceremonies and addresses will be preparatory to the gathering of the High tent the next day. On Monday morning open services and addresses of welcome will characterize the reception of delegates, while in the afternoon every member wearing the regalia of his position will be in a parade accompanied by many members of the order from this city and Wellsville. That evening East Liverpool will again show its importance through Favorite tent, the members of which will give a reception and entertainment for representatives and the many visitors who are expected to be here. Liberty tent will show its method of taking in a stranger on Tuesday evening, and it is confidently expected that these two meetings will stand prominent among the gatherings of the convention. Wednesday will be taken up with important business, and Thursday night. Leader Curfman and his excellent Girl's band will give a special reception, an affair where music and jollity will greet the strangers with open arms, and cause them to feel that they are at home. During that day there will be a picnic at Rock Springs, and the delegates can leave the two cities with the knowledge that we know the meaning of hospitality, and never fail to greet the stranger in a strange land after the orthodox regulations.

The Rechabites are more of a consideration in this community than many people imagine. They are not prone to stand in the highways blowing a horn, and loudly declaring that they are the chosen of the race followed in all things by their fellow man, but they have done a great deal of work since the society was organized in England, and now their numbers are high in the thousands. There are seven lodges, tents as they style their organizations, in this city and Wellsville, and the membership here alone amounts to over 500. Members are being added constantly, and it is the aim of some leaders to reach the thousand mark within the next few years. They are moving steadily toward that point, and there is little doubt that it will be reached with ease. While not a political organization, and having nothing to do with politics, its cardinal principle is temperance. This is taught to the children, and they are made members of the auxiliary at an early age. Wellsville also has a large membership, and this section is looked upon as one of the most important in the country being considered a great place for the growing organization.

The visitors will be entertained in royal style by the local members, homes being thrown open to them with a willingness which can not be mistaken. Reception committees will meet them at the trains to conduct them to their hosts, and every effort made to let them realize that they are as welcome as if they were in their own homes. It will be remembered that a number of delegates together with the Girl's band went from here to Washington two years ago where the meeting was held at that time. The local Rechabites think that while it will be impossible for them to show their visitors as many sights as they saw at the capital they can show them the best hospitality to be found in the world.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., SATURDAY, SEPT. 1.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

Secretary of State, S. M. TAYLOR.

Judge of Supreme Court, JOHN A. SHACK.

Member of Board of Public Works, CHARLES J. GRACE.

Commissioner of Schools, O. J. CARSON.

Congressman, R. W. TAYLOR.

Prosecuting Attorney, C. S. SPEAKER.

Commissioner, SAMUEL BYE.

Infantry Director, C. D. FILON.

For President, WILLIAM MCINLEY, Of Ohio.

DEMOCRACY is much like the inventor of the Keeley motor—its deeds are all in its eye.

ALL amateur orators who pose as politicians should remember that abuse is never argument.

THE constituents of Professor Wilson can do no better with the congressman than follow the course taken by the senate with his bill—lay him on the shelf.

WHAT a gathering that will be when the few Democratic representatives from the south take a look over the national house when the next congress opens for business.

SHOULD Mr. Taylor develop the the loquaciousness already shown by Coxey and his other opponent the congressional campaign in this district will be a hummer, and no mistake.

AFTER reading the speech of the local Democratic candidate for congressional honors the Massillon Independent decides that it will be well for him to carry a bucket of cracked ice wherever he may go.

THE SAME OLD CROWD.

The same Democratic party which has been in power less than two years, and in that time caused the gaunt specter of hunger to stalk into thousands of happy homes in this once prosperous land, is again abroad asking for votes. With the awful evidence of their treachery to the voters, in the form of a 123 per cent reduction, staring them in the face, they have the effrontery to plead for support at the polls, and sing that worn out song of their love for the workingman. When they approach one of these victims of Democratic rule he would be justified in the words, "Get thee behind me, Satan."

A CAMPAIGN OF FALSHOOD.

According to a time honored custom, and because they have no basis upon which to make a creditable fight, the Democratic leaders are preparing for a campaign of pervarication.

In addition to the numerous small and unnecessary falsehoods that will come from the lips of insignificant speakers during the battle, the big fellows will be at it with all the strength they can muster. Already the work has commenced and before it is done the recording angel, if he ever pays attention to the words of a stump speaker, will be compelled to call out a few assistants and increase his stock of stationery. The system adopted to this time consists of nothing more than the circulation of speeches said to have been delivered during the long year congress was in session. As a matter of course these aggregations of pretty phrases and ambiguous sentences were never delivered before any audience anywhere. Had they been inflicted upon the house or senate the misguided orators would have been laughed from the floor. According to these effusive efforts congress did a vast quantity of work, and accomplished more than any session in many years. But the people are awake. They have been awake during the entire session, and know what was done. Democracy will fail in its falsehood this time. The game is worked out. The pitcher has been taken to the well once too often. The enemy is struggling in the dark.

MORTON IS WILLING.

He Writes a Letter to New York Republicans.

AGREES TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR

If the Party Desires Him to Make the Race—However, He Is Not Seeking the Nomination—Willing to Give Any Other Nominee Hearty Support.

RUSSIE CLIFF, N. Y., Sept. 1.—The Hon. Levi P. Morton, in an open letter to the Republicans of the state of New York, says:

"In response to the very large number of suggestions made to me that I should declare my attitude with reference to the Republican state convention, I address myself to the Republicans of the state of New York and beg to say that while the suggestions are in themselves unusual, I venture to express the hope that the agency in the public journals for the announcement of my decision was not occasioned by any undue hesitation on my part.

"I am certainly not seeking any nomination from the convention I have been absent from the country so long and so far that no one can refer to the slightest movement on my part to cause a discussion in which my name has been used with the names of other Republicans who are deservedly honored throughout the state for their services and character. I have put myself in nobody's way; nor have I suffered anyone to do that for me which I disclaim for myself.

"And now having been five days on American soil, after 12 months' absence, and having examined the situation as well as possible in that period, I beg to say that in the approaching councils of the party in convention assembled, I desire to be regarded as a soldier in the Republican army, ready to receive the commands of my fellow-citizens of like persuasion in public policy with myself, whether those commands involve leadership or services in the ranks.

"When I left the vice president's chair, and since, I have had no thought, much less desire to re-enter public life. Manifest considerations regarding my family, which I have no right to obtrude upon the public, led me to desire to spend the remainder of my days in retirement.

"By the kindness of my countrymen, having held high official positions at home and abroad, I was profoundly content to let the record stand. But do not misunderstand me to imply that I look lightly upon the office of governor of the state of New York. I know something of the resources, the capacities and I appreciate the importance, the usefulness and the honor of the great office of the chief executive. Should I be called to fill it I shall strive earnestly to serve the people with steadfastness of purpose and to faithfully administer a public trust.

"Finally I aver in the sincerest terms if the convention shall prefer to see any other name than mine upon the Republican banner I shall accept the result without regret or sense of injury, and will give to the successful candidate my hearty and unwavering support.

Diaz Will Try to Comply.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Secretary Gresham has received a communication from Minister Gray, at Mexico, in relation to the case of Edward T. Adams, the Texan convicted of murder. Minister Gray has made a presentation of the case to President Diaz and asked that the sentence be commuted. President Diaz informed Mr. Gray that the Mexican government was making a thorough examination of the case and that if it were found possible to comply with the request of the United States minister such action would be cheerfully taken.

Protested Against Carlisle's Decision.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Senator Manderson was at the treasury department with a number of gentlemen from Nebraska interested in beet sugar production and manufacture. He protested against the recent decision of Secretary Carlisle that no further payments of sugar bounties should be made. It was arranged that the senator should file a brief, giving his views for the use of the secretary.

France Demands Indemnity.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—The governor of Indochina reports that on the night of the 27th Chinese marauders murdered M. Chaillet, French controller of customs at Monkai, in Tonquin, and kidnapped his wife and children. Troops pursued the outlaws, but failed to capture them. The French government has demanded indemnity from the government at Peking.

A Chance For Bat Shea.

ALBANY, Sept. 1.—Bat Shea, who was convicted of murdering Robert Ross at Troy during last spring's elections, and who was to have been electrocuted this week, will probably enjoy life another year. A stay has been granted pending an appeal which has not been filed.

New Athletic Club Licensed.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 1.—Mayor Schieren has granted a license to the Athletic Club of Coney Island, an organization recently incorporated as a rival of the Seaside Athletic club.

INGALLS NOT THE MAN.

An Authority Says It's Probable That He Will Succeed Newell.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 31.—Eastern papers speak of M. E. Ingalls as the probable successor of John Newell, late president of the Lake Shore road. In speaking of this one who is well informed said:

"There is a mistaken idea about M. E. Ingalls being what is termed a Vanderbilt man. While the Vanderbilts may have something to say about the affairs of the Big Four and Chesapeake and Ohio roads, and are highly respected by President Ingalls, the Drexel & Morgan interests in these roads exceed in amount that of the Vanderbilt interests, consequently Mr. Ingalls is more of a Drexel & Morgan man. There is, therefore, little ground for saying that he will be made president of the Lake Shore road. It seems well understood that, no matter who is president, a traffic manager will be appointed for the road, which makes four positions to fill on the Lake Shore road, namely, president, traffic manager, general freight agent and auditor."

Big Bunch of Checks Came In.

ZANESVILLE, O., Sept. 1.—The bogus checkworker who induced David Schmid to let him have money on a $40 check on the Third National bank of Cincinnati last week, evidently secured a big bunch of checks of the Citizens' National bank while here, as those which have come in already this week amount to over $500. The largest installment came from Warren, Pa., amounting to $165, while the others drifted in from Wheeling and Steubenville. His plan of operation is to make purchases and tender a check for a larger amount, securing cash for the balance. He goes under the name of Henry Smedburg and Henry Bessmer.

He Fooled the Sharper.

ZANESVILLE, O., Sept. 1.—John Waters of Springfield township won $5,000 at three-card monte, but didn't get it. One of the sharps wanted to buy his farm, and they met the other man, who introduced the game. They came to the city for Waters to show an equal amount, but he notified the police. The men escaped, abandoning the buggy they had hired at Dresden, and taking a Panhandle train.

Wanted to Lynch Him.

BUENA VISTA, O., Sept. 1.—Maggie Bishop, aged 15, had her father, William Bishop, arrested, and a lynching was narrowly averted as a result of disclosures at the examination, which proved that the prisoner had been intimate with the child for several years. A mob was organized and a rope secured to hang Bishop, but cooler counsel prevailed. Bishop was taken to Portsmouth.

An Optum Joint Raided.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—Tom Sing's optum joint was raided by the police at sunrise and a dozen prisoners captured. Among the victims were several of the chorus singers of the Wilbur Opera company, which is playing here. The dive is a notorious one and has been watched by the police for several months for the purpose of a raid. The keeper and inmates were greatly surprised.

His Wife Skipped.

FORTORIA, O., Sept. 1.—Adam Johnson, a prosperous farmer living a few miles from this city, went to the Toledo fair and when he returned he found that his wife had put their little boy to bed and then eloped with the hired man, named O'Donnell. The woman took with her a certificate of deposit, cash and notes to the value of about $500.

Laid Brick at Ninety.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 1.—C. C. Hyatt, formerly one of the leading contractors of Southern Ohio, celebrated his ninetieth birthday by laying brick for two hours on the new Presbyterian church. The incident was witnessed by a large number of citizens, who united in making the old gentleman's birthday a holiday.

Won't Start Up Today.

MASSILLON, O., Sept. 1.—Reed & Co., green glass manufacturers, deny the report that work will be resumed for the fall fire today pending a national settlement of the wage dispute. They say that the factories will continue idle until a scale is agreed to. They do not anticipate such an issue before Oct. 1.

Elliott's Sons In the Home.

DUN'S TRADE REVIEW.

Activity Continues, but Is Not Up to Expectations.

HEAVY ENTRIES OF FOREIGN GOODS

Have Followed the Going Into Effect of the New Tariff Law—The Cotton Yield Immense—Demand For Iron and Steel Products Increased.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade issued today says: The activity which came with exhausted stocks and the pressure of delayed fall demands, which was also increased by the removal of uncertainty about the tariff, has continued with heavy entries of foreign goods since the bill became a law. The gain is not yet what was expected, and business, if good in comparison with last year, is still poor in comparison with years preceding. Presumably there has not been time to feel the full effects of the change, and a gradual gain will be more healthy and encouraging than a spasmodic rise, but the expansion of commercial loans has suddenly ceased, prices of manufactured products show weakness rather than strength and there has been a reaction in the stock market, prices of railway stocks averaging 32 cents and of trust stocks 2.11 per share lower than a week ago.

Wheat moves largely and western receipts were 5,762,777 bushels for the week, against 2,933,901 bushels last year, and for Aug. 28, 599,000 bushels, against 15,500,000 bushels last year, which does not fit short crop predictions. Atlantic exports for the month have been only 14,000,000 bushels, against 24,000,000 last year, and the price has risen a shade during the week. Receipts of corn are only 1,433,392 bushels, against 3,460,646 for the week last year, while exports are insignificant, and the price has advanced 3 1/2 cents, while pork has risen 25 cents per bushel, and lard 55 cents per 100 pounds. Fears of frost, the crop being late, are argued as a reason for quotations otherwise unwarranted. Cotton has declined an eighth for the week, but the year closes with every indication of a yield materially exceeding the world's maximum consumption of American cotton, and with 1,600,000 bales of old cotton in sight. If all the mills were running full force the situation would not promise much. The demand for products of iron and steel has increased, but prices tend downward where any change appears, as there is not enough business yet to employ the works in operation. Steel bars are sold at 1 cent at Pittsburgh, and wire nails at $1.05, with Bessemer iron at $11.65, several additional furnaces having gone into blast. An encouraging sale of 10,000 bundles of cotton ties in competition with foreign ties, duty free, warrants hope that current prices in other branches may be low enough to meet the coming rivalry, and a sale of Messala ore at $3.25 delivered at lower lake ports is reported. There is a better demand for structural work, though one considerable contract for Cuba was broken off by the advance in Spanish duties.

Failures are still few and small. For the third week of August reported liabilities were $2,936,518, but for three weeks only $8,214,470, of which $2,845,338 were of manufacturing and $5,361,141 of trading concerns. The average is only $11,521 per firm failing. Failures this week have been 188 in the United States against 356 last year, and 40 in Canada against 29 last year.

KING OF THE TURF.

Robert J. Faces a Mile In 2:03 3/4 on the T. L. Wayne Track.

PORT WAYNE, Sept. 1.—Maxcott, Flying Jib and Nancy Hanks have been de-throned and Robert J. stands today king of harness horses. The great son of Hartford, driven by Ed. Geers, has made the fastest mile ever paced in harness, lowering the record of 2:04 to 2:03 3/4.

Geers appeared confident that he would equal his record, yet hardly any one expected the wonderful termination. After about 10 minutes spent in warming him up, Geers scored down the track with a running mate hanging on his wheel, but the silent man was not fully satisfied and his horse was not given. Again Geers scored down the track, and as he neared the starter's stand Robert J. was as steady as a clock and going like the wind. Geers nodded for the word. Starter Walker gave it, and Robert J. shot forward like an express train.

On to the first quarter he sped in 0:29 3/4. Everybody watched the half, and when that was passed in 1:01 1/2, the nerves of 5,000 people were wrought to the highest tension. Geers slowed up just a trifle, but when the three-quarter post was passed in 1:22 3/4, all were certain a world's record would be broken. Geers again let the great horse out, and as he swung into the homestretch down he came like the wind and crossed the wire 2:03 3/4, making the last quarter in just 30 seconds. The crowd was almost breathless until the wire was crossed, and as the time was caught by hundreds of watches, one mighty shout rent the air, and it was a most enthusiastic demonstration that took place. Cheers were given for Geers, for Robert J., for Hamlin, his owner, and for the track.

A FLOOD IN A DESERT.

A Treacherous River Rushes Down on Uvalde, Tex.

LIVES LOST AND PROPERTY RUINED

The Raging Waters Come Down In the Darkness of the Night on the Sleeping Inhabitants—An Earthquake Shock Adds To Their Terrors—Loss, 1,500,000.

UVALDE, Tex., Sept. 1.—A terrible catastrophe has befallen this thriving town and there is mourning in many households. The calamity was entirely unexpected. The treacherous Leona river, swollen to a raging torrent by recent rains, rushed without warning down upon the town, submerging and wrecking many houses and drowning a number of people. In this arid section such destructiveness by the elements has never before been chronicled. In the excitement of the day it is not definitely known how many have been drowned. Among the bodies that have been identified are: Mrs. Joseph Hatch, Miss Mattie Edwards, child of Mr. Maley and two Mexicans.

It was about 2 o'clock in the morning when the flood came. The weather had been threatening and there were ominous clouds to the north and east of the town. The atmosphere had been close during the evening, and predictions of a storm were freely made.

As the hours wore on and the people continued their slumbers, the dark clouds rose higher and higher. Just as the storm broke over the city in all its fury, a torrent of water rushed down the Leona river, overflowing the banks on either side to a depth of several feet. The east side of the city is built on low land and was directly in the path of this water. All the houses in this part of the town were submerged and in the darkness and throughout the downpour of rain that was falling could be heard the cries of distress from the ill-fated inhabitants in their wild efforts to save their lives and those of their families and loved ones. As soon as those in the higher part of town were made aware of the terrible flood and dire consequences, the work of rescuing was begun and carried out as rapidly as possible in the darkness of the night.

Great apprehension is felt for the families living on the ditch south of here where from 75 to 100 families live and the land lying fifteen feet lower than the river. It is feared they have been destroyed. One Mexican family living on the ranch of L. Schwartz, five miles below town, are supposed to have been lost, no vestige of ranch buildings being left. It is feared that Indiana's history is repeated.

An earthquake shock of some seconds duration was distinctly felt during the night. At one place near the city about a quarter of a mile of heavy cracks appear on each side of the Leona river, having apparently no bottom. A track walker of the Southern Pacific after wading through water up to his neck with his lantern elevated above his head, succeeded in feeling his way far enough east to intercept a west bound train and prevent it plunging into the raging river, where the railroad bridge had been destroyed.

Late news reaches here that three families living below town were drowned. The names have not yet been learned. According to reports received at the Southern Pacific offices, the terrible flood was augmented by a most remarkable phenomena which was caused by the earthquake. The loss to the Southern Pacific company is enormous, 40 miles of track and many bridges having been washed away. Over 100 carloads of material and 300 laborers had left San Antonio for the severe view wreck-ages. The damage to the Southern Pacific extends eastward about 75 miles from this city.

A rough estimate of the loss to property in general and the railroad company, will, as far as known, reach $1,500,000.

Will Vigorously Prosecute Strike Leaders.

FROM THE RANKS.

BY CAPT. CHARLES KING.

She did not. She would see no body from the instant the news came. She had hardly slept at night, was always awake at dawn and out at the wayside at the earliest copy of the morning papers, but the news reached them at nightfall, and when some of the ladies from the fort drove in to offer their sympathy and condolence in the morning and to make tender inquiry the answer at the door was that Miss Nina was not there, and that "she was very still."

And so it went for some days. Then there came the return of the command to Sibley, and hundreds of people went up town to see the six companies of the regular garrison march up the winding road amid the thunder of welcome from the guns of the light battery and the strains of the band. Mrs. Maynard and Alice were the only ladies of the circle who were not there. A son and brother had joined them after long absence, at Aunt Grace's cottage at Sablon, was the explanation, and the colonel would bring them home in a few days, after he had attended to some important matters at the fort. In the first place, Chester had to see to it that the name of scandal was not so far as the colonel's household was concerned, and all good people notified that no such thing had happened as was popularly supposed—and "everybody" received the announcement with the remark that she knew all along it couldn't be so—and that a grievous and absurd but most mortifying blunder had been made. It was a most unpleasant ghost to down.

The shadow of that scandal, for it would come up to the surface of garrison chat at all manner of confidential moments, but no man or woman could safely speak of it to Chester. It was gradually assumed that he was the man who had done all the blundering and that he was supersensitive on the subject.

There was another thing never satisfactorily explained to some of the garrison people, and that was Nina Beaumont's strange conduct. In less than a week she was seen on the street in colors—brilliant colors—when it was known she had ordered deep mourning, and then she suddenly disappeared and went with her silent old mother abroad. To this day no woman in society understands it, for when she came back, long, long afterward, it was a subject on which she would never speak. There were one or two who ventured to ask, and the answer was, "For reasons that concern me alone." But it took no great power of mental vision to see that her heart was black for him forever.

His letter explained it all. She had received it with a paroxysm of passionate grief and joy, kissed it, covered it with wild caresses before she began to read, and then, little by little, as the words unfolded before her staring eyes, turned cold as stone.

"It is my last night of life, Nina, and I am glad of it. So proud and sensitive as I am, the knowledge that every man in my regiment has turned from me, that I have not a friend among them, that there is no longer a place for me in their midst—more than all, that I deserve their contempt—has broken my heart. We will be in battle before the setting of another sun. Any man who seeks death in Indian fight can find it easily enough, and I can compel their respect in spite of themselves. They will not recognize me, living as one of them, but dying on the field they have to place me on their roll of honor."

"But now I turn to you. What have I been, what am I, to have won such love as yours? May God in heaven forgive me for my past! All too late I hate and despise the man I have been—the man whom you loved. One last act of justice remains. If I died without it, you would mourn me faithfully, tenderly, lovingly, for years, but if I tell the truth you will see the utter unworthiness of the man, and your love will turn to contempt. It is hard to do this, knowing that in doing it I kill the only genuine regret and dry the only tear that would bless my memory, but it is the one sacrifice I can make to complete my self humiliation, and it is the one thing that is left me that will free you. It will sting at first; but, like the surgeon's knife, it is mercy. Nina, the very night I came to you on the bluffs, the very night you periled your honor to have that parting interview, I went to you with a lie on my lips. I had told her we were nothing to each other, you and I. More than that, I was seeking her love. I hoped I could win her, and had she loved me I would have turned from you to make her my wife. Nina, I loved Alice Renwick. Goodbye. Don't mourn for me after this."

CHAPTER XX.

They were having a family convalesce at Sablon. The furlough granted Sergeant McLeod on account of wound received in action with hostile Indians would soon expire, and the question was, Should he ask an extension, apply for a discharge or go back and rejoin his troop? It was a matter on which there was much diversity of opinion. Mrs. Maynard should naturally be permitted first choice, and to her wish the tender consideration. No tell of the rapture of that rather long lost son. It was a which the colonel could never

and found him adjutant," said the colonel. "I always found his judgment clear, but since our last experience I have begun to look upon him as infallible."

Alice Renwick's face took on a flood of crimson as she sat there by her brother's side, silent and attentive. Only within the week that followed their return—the colonel's and her brother's—had the story of the strange complication been revealed to them. Twice had she heard from Fred's lips the story of Frank Armitage's greeting that frosty morning at the springs. Time and again had she made her mother go over the colonel's account of the confidence and faith he had expressed in there being a simple explanation of the whole mystery and of his indignation refusal to attach one moment's suspicion to her. Shocked, stunned, outraged as she felt at the mere fact that such a story had gained an instant's credence in garrison circles, she was overwhelmed by the weight of circumstantial evidence that had been arrayed against her.

Only little by little did her mother reveal it to her. Only after several days did Fred repeat the story of his night adventure and his theft of her picture, of his narrow escape and of his subsequent visit to the cottage. Only gradually had her mother revealed to her the circumstances of Jerrold's wager with Sloat and the direful consequences, of his double absences the very nights on which Fred had made his visits, of the suspicions that resulted, the accusations and his refusal to explain and clear his name. Mrs. Maynard felt vaguely relieved to see how slight an impression the young man had made on her daughter's heart. Alice seemed but little surprised to hear of the engagement to Nina Beaumont, of her rush to his rescue and their romantic parting. The tragedy of his death hushed all further talk on that subject. There was one of which she could not hear enough, and that was about the man who had been most instrumental in the rescue of her name and honor. Alice had only tender sorrow and no reproach for her stepfather when, after her mother told her the story of his sad experience 20 years before, she related his distress of mind and suspicion when he read Jerrold's letter. It was then that Alice said, "And against that piece of evidence no man, I suppose, would hold me guiltless?"

"You are wrong, dear," was her mother's answer. "It was powerless to move Captain Armitage. He scouted the idea of your guilt from the moment he set eyes on you and never rested until he had overturned the last atom of evidence. Even I had to explain," said her mother, "simply to confirm his theory of the light Captain Chester had seen and the shadows and the form at the window. It was just exactly as Armitage reasoned it out. I was wretched and wakeful, sleeping but fitfully that night. I arose and took some bromide about 3 o'clock and soon afterward heard a fall or a noise like one. I thought of you and got up and went in your room, and all was quiet there, but it seemed close and warm, so I raised your shade and then left both your door and mine open and went back to bed."

"I dozed away presently and then woke feeling all startled again, don't you know—the sensation one experiences when aroused from sleep, certain that there has been a strange and startling noise, and yet unable to tell what it was? I lay still a moment, but the colonel slept through it all, and I wondered at it. I knew there had been a shot or something, but could not bear to disturb him. At last I got up again and went to your room to be sure you were all right, and you were sleeping soundly still, but a breeze was beginning to blow and flap your shade to and fro, so I drew it and went out, taking my lamp with me this time and softly closing your door behind me. See how it all seemed to fit in with everything else that had happened. It took a man with a will of his own and an unshakable faith in woman to stand firm against such evidence."

And, though Alice Renwick was silent, she appreciated the fact none the less. Day after day she clung to her stalwart brother's side. She had ceased to ask questions about Captain Armitage and that strange greeting after the first day or two; but, oddly enough, she could never let him talk long of any subject but that campaign, of his ride with the captain to the front, of the long talk they had had, and then the stirring fight and the magnificent way in which Armitage had handled his long skirmish line. He was enthusiastic in his praise of the tall Saxon captain. He soon noted how silent and absorbed she sat when he was the theme of discourse. He incidentally mentioned little things "he" had said about "her" that morning and marked how her color rose and her eyes flashed quick, joyful, questioning glances at his face, then fell in maiden shyness. He had speedily gauged the cause of that strange excitement displayed by Armitage at seeing him the morning he rode in with the scout. Now he was gauging with infinite delight the other side of the question. Then, brotherlike, he began to twit and tease her, and that was the last of the confidences.

The funeral of the little child of Charles Hall took place from the family residence on the Calcutta road at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The remains were interred in Spring Grove cemetery.

The picnic of the Columbian club last evening was among the most enjoyable held this season. Young society people to the number of 50 were present, and danced merrily until midnight.

Samuel, the little son of Jack Pollack, of East End, fell from the Chambers delivery wagon Thursday and sustained a broken arm. The little one's injuries are painful, but the fracture was nothing more than the ordinary.

Mrs. Reynolds returned yesterday to her home in East End after spending about a month at Delaware, where she was called by the serious illness of her husband. The latter is much improved, however, and is on a fair road to recovery.

The members of the board of education are trying to induce the proper authorities to clean out Church alley back of the new school building and pave the place before the rains come. The improvement is much to be desired by the property owners along there as well as the board, and it is expected that something will be done in a few days.

Yesterday a party made up of 12 young people from the Christian church enjoyed a picnic at Fredericktown, the day being enlivened by an event which cost two of the young ladies double that number of wet feet. While playing about the creek they slipped, and fell into the water. The only damage was a few wet garments and two badly frightened girls.

"I don't understand why some newspapers insist on delivering the paper after it has been stopped by the man who pays for it," said a potter to the News Review last night. "I have ordered a paper in this place stopped over two weeks ago, yet they continue to send it. I don't know, but I guess that is the way some of those fellows work up such a big subscription."

At the city hall yesterday afternoon the motion for a new trial in the case of L. C. Graves & Co., versus Joseph Walters was heard by Squire Travis. The plaintiffs recently got judgment for $26.75 but the claim put forward by them is that the jury did not render a verdict according to the evidence and that the proceedings were not lawful. The squire withheld his decision until 1 o'clock today.

The husband of a woman who resides down town came home the other evening after a long absence, and claimed that he had been boarding with a woman on a shanty boat near the foot of Washington street and that she held his satchel for 50 cents, a balance due on board. His wife gave him the money and he spent it for whiskey, returning with the satchel he had left at a saloon. The shanty boat woman heard about the lie and started on the warpath. A grand row resulted, but no blood was shed.

An interesting row was witnessed by a large crowd on lower Third street last night. There is an escape pipe near the residence of Chris Ackerman, on Third street, and some of the Smith family, living nearby, lighted the gas. This brought Ackerman to the front and he put out the gas. It was lit again and again, and each time Chris appeared to extinguish it. Finally Mrs. Smith went to the patrol station and got Patrolman Meador, who watched the fun awhile. It is doubtful who the victor was, as the neighbors laughed themselves tired and went home. Some very foul language was used, it is said.

For President,
WILLIAM MCKINLEY,
Of Ohio.

DEMOCRACY is much like the inventor of the Keeley motor—its deeds
are all in its eye.

ALL amateur orators who pose as politicians should remember that abuse is never argument.

THE constituents of Professor
Wilson can do no better with the congressman than follow the course taken
by the senate with his bill—lay him
on the shelf.

WHAT a gathering that will be when
the few Democratic representatives
from the south take a look over the national house when the next congress opens for business.

SHOULD Mr. Taylor develop the eloquaciousness already shown by Coxey and his other opponent the congressional campaign in this district
will be a hummer, and no mistake.

AFTER reading the speech of the local Democratic candidate for congressional honors the Massillon independent decides that it will be well
for him to carry a bucket of cracked
ice wherever he may go.

THE SAME OLD CROWD.

The same Democratic party which has been in power less than two years, and in that time caused the gaunt specter of hunger to stalk into
thousands of happy homes in this once prosperous land, is again abroad asking for votes. With the awful evidence of their treachery to the voters,
in the form of a 12 1/2 per cent reduction, staring them in the face, they have the effrontery to plead for support at the polls, and sing that worn out song of their love for the workingman. When they approach one of these victims of Democratic rule he will be justified in the words, "Get thee behind me, Satan."

A CAMPAIGN OF FALSEHOOD.

According to a time honored custom,
and because they have no basis upon which to make a creditable fight, the Democratic leaders are preparing for a campaign of prevarication.

In addition to the numerous small
and unnecessary falsehoods that will come from the lips of insignificant
speakers during the battle, the big fellows will be at it with all the strength they can muster. Already the work has commenced and before it is done the recording angel, if he ever pays attention to the words of a stump speaker, will be compelled to call out a few assistants and increase
his stock of stationery. The system adopted to this time consists of nothing more than the circulation of speeches said to have been delivered
during the long year congress was in session. As a matter of course these aggregations of pretty phrases and ambiguous sentences were never delivered before any audience anywhere.
Had they been indicted upon the house or senate the misguided orators
would have been laughed from the floor. According to these effusive
efforts congress did a vast quantity of work, and accomplished more than any session in many years. But the people are awake. They have been awake during the entire session, and know what was done. Democracy
will fail in its falsehood this time.
The game is worked out. The pitcher
has been taken to the well once too often. The enemy is struggling in the dark.

MORTON IS WILLING.

He Writes a Letter to New York Republicans.

AGREES TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR
If the Party Desires Him to Make the Race—However, He Is Not Seeking the Nomination—Willing to Give Any Other Nominee Hearty Support.

RHINE CLIFF, N. Y., Sept. 1.—The Hon. Levi P. Morton, in an open letter to the Republicans of the state of New York, says:

"In response to the very large number of suggestions made to me that I should declare my attitude with reference to the Republican state convention,
I address myself to the Republicans of the state of New York and beg to say
that while the suggestions are in themselves unusual, I venture to express the hope that the urgency in the public journals for the announcement of my decision was not occasioned by any undue hesitation on my part.

"I am certainly not seeking any nomination from the convention I have been absent from the country so long
and so far that no one can refer to the slightest movement on my part to cause
a discussion in which my name has been used with the names of other Republicans who are deservedly honored throughout the state for their services and character. I have put myself in nobody's way; nor have I suffered anyone to do that for me which I disclaim for myself.

"And now having been five days on American soil, after 12 months' absence,
and having examined the situation as well as possible in that period, I beg to say that in the approaching councils of the party in convention assembled, I desire to be regarded as a soldier in the Republican army, ready to receive the commands of my fellow-citizens of like
pursuance in public policy with myself,
whether these commands involve leadership or services in the ranks.

"When I left the vice president's chair,
and since, I have had no thought, much less desire to re-enter public life. Man-ifold considerations regarding my family,
which I have no right to intrude upon
the public, led me to desire to spend the remainder of my days in retirement.

"By the kindness of my countrymen,
having held high official positions at home and abroad, I was profoundly content to let the record stand. But do not understand me to imply that I look lightly upon the office of governor of the state of New York. I know something of the resources, the capacities and I appreciate the importance, the usefulness and the honor of the great office of the chief executive. Should I be called to fill it I shall strive earnestly to serve
the people with steadfastness of purpose
and to faithfully administer a public trust.

"Finally I aver in the sincerest terms
if other men than mine upon the Republican banner I shall accept the result
without regret, or sense of injury, and will give to the successful candidate my hearty and unwavering support.

DIAZ WILL TRY TO COMPLY.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Secretary
Gresham has received a communication
from Minister Gray, at Mexico, in relation to the case of Edward T. Adams,
the Texan convicted of murder. Minister Gray has made a presentation of the case to President Diaz and asked that the sentence be commuted. President Diaz informed Mr. Gray that the Mexican government was making a thorough examination of the case and that if it were found possible to comply with the request of the United States
minister such action would be cheerfully
taken.

Protested Against Carlisle's Decision.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Senator Man-
derson was at the treasury department
with a number of gentlemen from Nebraska interested in beet sugar production and manufacture. He protested against the recent decision of Secretary Carlisle that no further payments of sugar bounties should be made. It was arranged that the senator should file a brief, giving his views for the use of the senators.

France Demands Indemnity.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—The governor of Indo-China reports that on the night of the 23rd Chinese marauders murdered M.
Chaillet, French controller of customs at Monkai, in Tonquin, and kidnapped his wife and children. Troops pursued the outlaws, but failed to capture them.
The French government has demanded
indemnity from the government at Peking.

A Chance For Bat Shon.

ALBANY, Sept. 1.—Bat Shon, who was convicted of murdering Robert Ross at Troy during last spring's elections, and who was to have been electrocuted this week, will probably enjoy life another year. A stay has been granted pending
an appeal which has not been filed.

New Athletic Club Licensed.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 1.—Mayor Schieren
has granted a license to the Atlantic Athletic Club, an organization recently incorporated as a rival
of the Seaside Athletic club.

INGALLS NOT THE MAN.

An Authority Says It's Improbable That
He Will Succeed Nowell.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 31.—Eastern papers
speak of M. E. Ingalls as the probable successor of John Nowell, late president of the Lake Shore road. In speaking of this one who is well informed said:

"There is a mistaken idea about M. E.
Ingalls being what is termed a Vanderbilt man. While the Vanderbilts may have something to say about the affairs
of the Big Four and Chesapeake and Ohio roads, and are highly respected by President Ingalls, the Drexel & Morgan
interests in these roads exceed in amount
that of the Vanderbilts interests. Consequently Mr. Ingalls is more of a Drexel & Morgan man. There is, therefore,
little ground for saying that he will be made president of the Lake Shore road.
It seems well understood that, no matter who is president, a traffic manager
will be appointed for the road, which makes four positions to fill on the Lake Shore road, namely, president, traffic
manager, general freight agent and auditor."

Big Bunch of Checks Came In.

ZANESVILLE, O., Sept. 1.—The bogus
checkworker who induced David Schmid
to let him have money on a $40 check
on the Third National bank of Cincinnati last week, evidently secured a big bunch of checks of the Citizens National bank while here, as those which have come in already this week amount to over $500. The largest installment came from Warren, Pa., amounting to $165, while the others drifted in from Wheeling and Steubenville. His plan
of operation is to make purchases and
tender a check for a larger amount, securing cash for the balance. He goes
under the name of Henry Smedburg
and Henry Bessmer.

He Fooled the Sharps.

ZANESVILLE, O., Sept. 1.—John
Waters of Springfield township won $5,000 at three-card monte, but didn't get it. One of the sharps wanted to buy his farm, and they met the other man, who introduced the game. They came to the city for Waters to show an equal amount, but he testified the police.
The men escaped, abandoning the buggy
they had hired at Dresden, and taking a Panhandle train.

Wanted to Lynch Him.

BUENA VISTA, O., Sept. 1.—Maggie
Bishop, aged 15, had her father, William Bishop, arrested and a lynching was narrowly averted as a result of disclosures at the examination, which proved that the prisoner had been intimate with the child for several years.
A mob was organized and a rope secured to hang Bishop, but cooler
counsels prevailed. Bishop was taken to Portsmouth.

An Opinion Joint Raided.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—Tom Sing's
opinion joint was raided by the police
at sunrise and a dozen prisoners captured. Among the victims were several of the chorus singers of the Wilbur
Opera company, which is playing here.
The dive is a notorious one and has been watched by the police for several months for the purpose of a raid. The keeper and inmates were greatly surprised.

His Wife Skipped.

FOSTERIA, O., Sept. 1.—Adam Johnson, a prosperous farmer living a few miles from this city, went to the Toledo
fair and when he returned he found that
his wife had put their little boy to bed
and then eloped with the hired man, James O'Donnell. The woman took
with her a certificate of deposit, cash
and notes to the value of about $700.

Laid Brick at Ninety.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 1.—C. C.
Hyatt, formerly one of the leading contractors of Southern Ohio, celebrated his ninthieth birthday by laying brick for two hours on the new Presbyterian church. The incident was witnessed by a large number of citizens, who united
in making the old gentleman's birthday
a holiday.

Won't Start Up Today.

MASSILLON, O., Sept. 1.—Reed & Co.,
green glass manufacturers, deny the report that work will be resumed for the fall fire today pending a national settlement of the wage. They say that the factories will continue idle until a scale is agreed to. They do not anticipate such an issue before Oct. 1.

Elliott's Sons in the Home.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—The two younger sons of William J. Elliott, who is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary, have been admitted to the Soldiers'
and Sailors' Orphans' home, at Xenia,
the father being an honorably discharged soldier and in the eyes of the law dead.

A Requisition Secured.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—Detective
Jack Reeves of Cleveland has secured a requisition upon the governor of Texas
for the extradition of James M. Gray.
Gray was a piano salesman who sold a piano to Carrie Stewart for $135, and fled with the cash. He is under arrest
at Houston.

Accused of Selling Adulterated Goods.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 1.—T. H.
Montfort, representing a Louisville firm,
selling vinegar and spices, has been arrested in this city by Deputy Dairy and Food Commissioner Hastings on a charge of selling adulterated goods. He was taken to fronton for trial.

Drowned in Silver Lake.

AKRON, O., Sept. 1.—Prof. D. F. Conant, instructor in the gymnasium of Chicago university, was taken by a cramp while bathing in Silver lake and was drowned. He was the guest here
of H. Clark Wells.

Arrested at Barnesville.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—Albert Head,
defaulting postmaster at Albion, Ida.,
has been arrested at Barnesville, O., by Marshal Babb. He was brought to Columbus and will have a preliminary hearing today.

Shot Himself Through the Heart.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—Edward S. Dean
of 27 Dean street, a wealthy retired business man, became weary of suffering
bodily pains and shot himself through
the heart.

Injured in a Wreck.

CROWN POINT, N. Y., Sept. 1.—The
Montreal express in the Delaware and Hudson railroad was thrown from the track near Kente, and more than 20 persons were injured, none seriously,
however.

DUN'S TRADE REVIEW.

Activity Continues, but Is Not
Up to Expectations.

HEAVY ENTRIES OF FOREIGN GOODS

Have Followed the Going Into Effect
of the New Tariff Law—The Cotton Yield Immense—Demand For Iron and Steel Products Increased.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—R. G. Dun &
Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade issued today says: The activity which came
with exhausted stocks and the pressure
of delayed fall demands, which was also increased by the removal of uncertainty
about the tariff, has continued with heavy entries of foreign goods since the bill became a law. The gain is not yet
what was expected, and business, if good in comparison with last year, is still poor in comparison with years preceding. Presumably there has not been
time to feel the full effects of the change,
and a gradual gain will be more healthy
and encouraging than a spasmodic rise,
but the expansion of commercial loans
has suddenly ceased, prices of manufactured products show weakness rather than strength and there has been a reaction in the stock market, prices of railway stocks averaging 32 cents and of trust stocks 2.11 per share lower than a week ago.

Wheat moves largely and western receipts were 5,767,777 bushels for the week, against 2,933,901 bushels last year, and for Aug. 28, 500,000 bushels,
against 15,500,000 bushels last year,
which does not fit short crop predictions. Atlantic exports for the month
have been only 14,000,000 bushels, against 24,000,000 last year, and the price has risen a shade during the week. Receipts of corn are only 1,423,302 bushels, against 3,460,646 for the week last year, while exports are insignificant, and the price
has advanced 3 1/2 cents, while pork has risen 25 cents per bushel and lard 55
cents per 100 pounds. Fears of frost,
the crop being late, are argued as a reason for quotations otherwise unwarranted. Cotton has declined an eighth for the week, but the year closes with every indication of a yield materially
exceeding the world's maximum consumption of American cotton, and with 1,600,000 bales of old cotton in sight.
If all the mills were running full force
the situation would not promise much.

The demand for products of iron and steel has increased, but prices tend downward where any change appears, as there is not enough business yet to consider the work in operation. Steel bars are sold at 1 cent at Pittsburgh, and wire nails at $1.05, with Bessemer iron
at $11.65, several additional furnaces
having gone into blast. An encouraging sale of 40,000 bundles of cotton
ties in competition with foreign ties,
duty free, warrants hope that current
prices in other branches may be low enough to meet the coming rivalry, and a sale of Messabie ore at $2.25 delivered at lower lake ports is reported. There is a better demand for structural work,
though one considerable contract for Cuba was broken off by the advance in Spanish duties.

Failures are still few and small. For the third week of August reported in-abilities were $2,956,518, but for three weeks only $8,214,470 of which $2,815,338
were of manufacturing and $5,399,141 of trading concerns. The average is only $11,321 per firm failing. Failures this week have been 188 in the United States
against 356 last year, and 40 in Canada
against 29 last year.

A Fast Train Wrecked.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 1.—The Chicago and West Michigan fast train,
known as the "Flyer," was wrecked 12 miles south of Baldwin, by running into a herd of cattle. The engine was overturned and the entire
train dived except the parlor car,
which remained on the track. Fireman
John Kobe of this city was instantly killed, crushed under the engine, and Engineer John S. Peterson was so badly injured that he died, after being brought to this city.

Studebaker Don't Know Nellie.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 1.—Mr. Clem Studebaker is greatly annoyed by the statement in the San Francisco dispatch referring to the record of Nellie Neustetter, in which the name of "Studebaker,"
the millionaire carriage man, was coupled with hers in an unpleasant manner. Mr. Studebaker absolutely and emphatically denies ever having known
the woman.

Another Bank Wrecker Pardoned.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—President Cleveland has followed up his action in pardoning Albert L. Gould, one of the brothers convicted of wrecking a bank
in Albany, N. Y., by granting a pardon
to another brother, OTIS ALLEN GOULD.

The Comte de Paris Dying.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The Comte de Paris
has received the last sacrament of the Roman Catholic church in the presence
of his family and household servants,
and is very near death.

Free From the Plague.

HONG KONG, Sept. 1.—This city has been declared free from the plague.
The number of cases has been reduced to a minimum.

KING OF THE TURF.

Robert J. Faces a Mile In 2:03 3/4 on the
Fl. Wayne Track.

FORT WAYNE, Sept. 1.—Mascott, Flying Jib and Nancy Hanks have been dethroned and Robert J. stands today
king of harness horses. The great son of Hartford, driven by Ed. Geers, has made the fastest mile ever paced in harness, lowering the record of 2:04 to 2:03 3/4.

Geers appeared confident that he would equal his record, yet hardly anyone expected the wonderful termination.
After about 10 minutes spent in warming him up, Geers scored down the track
with a running mate hanging on his

ROBERT J.

wheel, but the silent man was not fully
satisfied and the word was not given.
Again Geers scored down the track
and as he neared the starter's stand Robert J. was as steady as a clock and going like the wind. Geers nodded for the word. Starter Walker gave it, and Robert J. shot forward like an express train.

On to the first quarter he sped in 0:29 3/4. Everybody watched the half,
and when that was passed in 1:01 1/2,
the nerves of 5,000 people were wrought
to the highest tension. Geers showed up
just a trifle, but when the three-quarter
post was passed in 1:23 3/4, all were certain a world's record would be broken. Geers again let the great horse out, and as he swung into the homestretch down he came like a wind and crossed the wire 2:03 3/4, making the last quarter in just 30 seconds.

The crowd was almost breathless until
the wire was crossed, and as the time
was caught by hundreds of watches,
one mighty shout rent the air, and it was a most enthusiastic demonstration that took place. Cheers were given for Geers, for Robert J. for Hamlin, his owner, and for the track.

head Bay were: First race, 5 furlongs—Stone-nell, 5 to 1, won. Time, 1:20 3/4. Second, 1

An Ohio Horse Drops Dead.

FR. WAYNE, Sept. 1.—In the races at the Driving Park association Anderson Belle,
owned by J. C. Saunders of Greenville, O.,
dropped dead as he came in on the completed race. His time in this heat
at the home race was 2:12.

Ended in a Draw.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 1.—The fight between Calisher and Slusher ended in a

FROM THE RANKS.

she did not. She would see no body from the instant the news came. She had hardly slept at night, was always awake at dawn and out at the gate to get the earliest copy of the morning papers, but the news reached them at nightfall, and when some of the ladies from the fort drove in to offer their sympathy and condolence in the morning and to make tender inquiries into the matter, she would see that Miss Nina was at the door as that Miss Nina saw today, that her mother alone was with her, and that "she was very still." And so it went for some days. Then there came the return of the command to Sibley, and hundreds of people went up from town to see the six companies of the fort garrison march up the winding road amid the thunder of welcome from the guns of the light battery and the exultant strains of the band. Mrs. Maynard and Alice were the only ladies of the fort who were not there. A son and brother had joined them after long absence, at Aunt Grace's cottage at Sablon, was the explanation, and the colonel would bring them home in a few days, after he had attended to some important matters at the fort. In the first place, Chester had to see to it that the scene of scandal was slit, so far as the colonel's household was concerned, and all good people notified that no such thing had happened as was popularly supposed—and "everybody" received the announcement with the remark that she knew all along it couldn't be so—and that a grievous and absurd but most mortifying blunder had been made. It was a most unpleasant ghost to down, the shadow of that scandal, for it would come up to the surface of garrison chat at all manner of confidential moments, but no man or woman could safely speak of it to Chester. It was gradually assumed that he was the man who had done all the blundering and that he was supersensitive on the subject.

There was another thing never satisfactorily explained to some of the garrison people, and that was Nina Beauchien's strange conduct. In less than a week she was seen on the street in colors—brilliant colors—when it was known she had ordered deep mourning, and then she suddenly disappeared and went with her silent old mother abroad. To this day no woman in society understands it, for when she came back, long, long afterward, it was a subject on which she would never speak. There were one or two who ventured to ask, and the answer was, "For reasons that concern me alone." But it took no great power of mental vision to see that her heart went black for him forever.

His letter explained it all. She had received it with a paroxysm of passionate grief and joy, kissed it, covered it with wildest caresses before she began to read, and then, little by little, as the words unfolded before her staring eyes, turned cold as stone.

"It is my last night of life, Nina, and I am glad to go. Proud and sensitive as I am, the knowledge that every man in my regiment has turned from me that I have not a friend among them, that there is no longer a place for me in their midst—more than all, that I deserve their contempt—has broken my heart. We will be in battle before the setting of another sun. Any man who seeks death in Indian fight can find it easily enough, and I can compel their respect in spite of themselves. They will not recognize me, living as one of them, but dying on the field they have to place me on their roll of honor."

"But now I turn to you. What have I been, what am I, to have won such love as yours? May God in heaven forgive me for my past! All too late I hate and despise the man I have been—the man whom you loved. One last act of justice remains. If I did without it, you would mourn me faithfully, tenderly, lovingly, for years, but if I tell the truth you will see the utter unworthiness of the man, and your love will turn to contempt. It is hard to do this, knowing that in doing it I kill the only genuine regret and dry the only tear that would bless my memory, but it is the one sacrifice I can make to complete my self humiliation, and it is the one thing that is left me that will free you. It will sting at first; but, like the surgeon's knife, its cut is mercy. Nina, the very night I came to you on the bluff, the very night you periled your honor to have that parting interview, I went to you with a lie on my lips. I had told her we were nothing to each other, you and I. More than that, I was seeking her love. I hoped I could win her, and had she loved me I would have turned from you to make her my wife. Nina, I loved Alice Renwick. Goodbye. Don't mourn for me after this."

CHAPTER XX.

They were having a family conclave at Sablon. The furlough granted Sergeant McLeod on account of wound received in action with hostile Indians would soon expire, and the question was, Should he ask an extension, apply for a discharge or go back and rejoin his troop? It was a matter on which there was much diversity of opinion. Mrs. Maynard should naturally be permitted first choice, and to her wish there was every reason for according deep and tender consideration. No words can tell of the rapture of that reunion with her long lost son. It was a scene over which the colonel could never

and found him adjutant," said the colonel. "I always found his judgment clear, but since our last experience I have begun to look upon him as infallible."

Alice Renwick's face took on a flood of crimson as she sat there by her brother's side, silent and attentive. Only within the week that followed their return—the colonel's and her brother's—had the story of the strange complication been revealed to them. Twice had she heard from Fred's lips the story of Frank Armitage's greeting that frosty morning at the springs. Time and again had she made her mother go over the colonel's account of the confidence and faith he had expressed in there being a simple explanation of the whole mystery and of his indignant refusal to attach one moment's suspicion to her. Shocked, stunned, outraged as she felt at the mere fact that such a story had gained an instant's credence in garrison circles, she was overwhelmed by the weight of circumstantial evidence that had been arrayed against her.

Only little by little did her mother reveal it to her. Only after several days did Fred repeat the story of his night adventure and his theft of her picture, of his narrow escape and of his subsequent visit to the cottage. Only gradually had her mother revealed to her the circumstances of Jerrold's wager with Sloat and the direful consequences, of his double absence the very nights on which Fred had made his visits, of the suspicions that resulted, the accusations and his refusal to explain and clear his name. Mrs. Maynard felt vaguely relieved to see how slight an impression the young man had made on her daughter's heart. Alice seemed but little surprised to hear of the engagement to Nina Beauchien, of her rush to his rescue and her romantic parting. The tragedy of his death hushed all further talk on that subject. There was one of which she could not hear enough, and that was about the man who had been most instrumental in the rescue of her name and honor. Alice had only tender sorrow and no reproach for her stepfather when, after her mother told her the story of his sad experience 20 years before, she related his distress of mind and suspicion when he read Jerrold's letter. It was then that Alice said, "And against that piece of evidence no man, I suppose, would hold me guilty."

"You are wrong, dear," was her mother's answer. "It was powerless to move Captain Armitage. He scouted the idea of your guilt from the moment he set eyes on you and never rested until he had overturned the last atom of evidence. Even I had to explain," said her mother, "simply to confirm his theory of the light Captain Chester had seen and the shadows and the form at the window. It was just exactly as Armitage reasoned it out. I was wretched and wakeful, sleeping but fitfully that night. I arose and took some bromide about 3 o'clock and soon afterward heard a fall or a noise like one. I thought of you and got up and went in your room, and all was quiet there, but it seemed close and warm, so I raised your shade and then left both your door and mine open and went back to bed."

"I dozed away presently and then woke feeling all startled again, don't you know—the sensation one experiences when aroused from sleep, certain that there has been a strange and startling noise, and yet unable to tell what it was? I lay still a moment, but the colonel slept through it all, and I wondered at it. I knew there had been a shot or something, but could not bear to disturb him. At last I got up again and went to your room to be sure you were all right, and you were sleeping soundly still, but a breeze was beginning to blow and flap your shade to and fro, so I drew it and went out, taking my lamp with me this time and softly closing your door behind me. See how it all seemed to fit in with everything else that had happened. It took a man with a will of his own and an unshakable faith in woman to stand firm against such evidence."

And, though Alice Renwick was silent, she appreciated the fact none the less. Day after day she clung to her stalwart brother's side. She had ceased to ask questions about Captain Armitage and that strange greeting after the first day or two; but, oddly enough, she could never let him talk long of any subject but that campaign, of his ride with the captain to the front, of the long talk they had had, and then the stirring fight and the magnificent way in which Armitage had handled his long skirmish line. He was enthusiastic in his praise of the tall Saxon captain. He soon noted how silent and absorbed she sat when he was the theme of discourse. He incidentally mentioned little things "he" had said about "her" that morning and marked how her color rose and her eyes flashed quick, joyful, questioning glances at his face, then fell in maidenly shyness. He had speedily gauged the cause of that strange excitement displayed by Armitage at seeing him the morning he rode in with the scout. Now he was gauging with infinite delight the other side of the question. Then, brotherlike, he began to twit and tease her, and that was the last of the confidences.

The funeral of the little child of Charles Hall took place from the family residence on the Calcutta road at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The remains were interred in Spring Grove cemetery.

The members of the board of education are trying to induce the proper authorities to clean out Church alley back of the new school building and pave the place before the rains come. The improvement is much to be desired by the property owners along there as well as the board, and it is expected that something will be done in a few days.

Yesterday a party made up of 12 young people from the Christian church enjoyed a picnic at Fredericktown, the day being enlivened by an event which cost two of the young ladies double that number of wet feet. While playing about the creek they slipped, and fell into the water. The only damage was a few wet garments and two badly frightened girls.

"I don't understand why some newspapers insist on delivering the paper after it has been stopped by the man who pays for it," said a potter to the News Review last night. "I have ordered a paper in this place stopped over two weeks ago, yet they continue to send it. I don't know, but I guess that is the way some of those fellows work up such a big subscription."

At the city hall yesterday afternoon the motion for a new trial in the case of L. C. Graves & Co. versus Joseph Walters was heard by Squire Travis. The plaintiffs recently got judgment for $26.75 but the claim put forward by them is that the jury did not render a verdict according to the evidence and that the proceedings were not lawful. The squire withheld his decision until 1 o'clock today.

The husband of a woman who resides down town came home the other evening after a long absence, and claimed that he had been boarding with a woman on a shanty boat near the foot of Washington street and that she held his satchel for 50 cents, a balance due on board. His wife gave him the money and he spent it for whiskey, returning with the satchel he had left at a saloon. The shanty boat woman heard about the tale and started on the warpath. A grand row resulted, but no blood was shed.

A SPLENDID INSTITUTION.

What the Potter's Building and Savings Company Are Doing.

There is no institution in the city which tempered the hard times more than the Potter's Building and Savings company.

During the dark days of the first six months of the year it aided business by paying out $67,000. This money came from those who could save, and was given to those who had saved, but were now by the stress of misfortune compelled to call in what they had accumulated. Many families were thus enabled to tide over the depression by savings which they never missed when prosperity was a welcome visitor to our city. The nature of the company is such that every member, not a few, is benefited and aided by whatever progress made. All receive the same proportionate benefit, and all share alike the profits. As an investment the company is safe, as a business enterprise it is a credit to the city, as a force to move progress it has no equal among the institutions of East Liverpool.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Miss Elder, of Beaver, was visiting friends here this week.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman, druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at Potts drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.

—W. B. Donaldson, of Fairview, who has been visiting friends here returned home this afternoon.

Irring W. Larimore, physical director of Young Men's Christian association Des Moines, Iowa, says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, foot ball players and the profession in general for bruises, sprains and dislocations; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one half the time usually required. For sale by A. H. Bulger, Druggist.

—Miss Anna Brunton, of Allegheny, who has been visiting friends in this city returned home this morning.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a serious time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had had colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by A. H. Bulger, Druggist.

—Will Pease, of Ironton, who has been in the city on business for several days, returned home this morning, and will leave Monday for a trip to the west.

A. M. Bailey, a well known citizen of Eugene, Oregon, says his wife has for years been troubled with chronic diarrhoea and used many remedies with little relief until she tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy, which has cured her sound and well. Give it a trial and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. Twenty-five and 50 cents a bottle for sale by A. H. Bulger, Druggist.

A PERMANENT BUREAU.

The Southern Development Convention Agrees to Have One in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The Southern Development convention has adopted the report of the committee on plan and scope, which provides for a permanent bureau in Washington for the exhibition of the resources of the southern states and for the general information of capital and labor, the expenses of the bureau to be paid by pro rata contributions from the states. Also a sub-bureau in each state through which exhibits should be forwarded to Washington, to be in charge of the commissioners of agriculture, labor or immigration, who should verify all information filed with the bureau. A small commission would be allowed on sales made through the bureau.

A committee of one member from each state and the District of Columbia, was provided for, to be appointed by the chair, and a meeting to be held in Washington to which the governor of each state would appoint delegates and to which the governors would be invited to perfect details of the organization. Another resolution indorsed the bill introduced in the senate by Senator Walsh for a permanent exhibit in Washington of the resources of all the states.

Result of Maloney's Crusade.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—The Chicago Gas trust has begun a systematic cutting of rates which is expected to extend throughout the city. The Mutual company has cut its prices in its district of the Southside from $1 to 72 cents for illuminating, and from $1.15 to $1 for fuel gas. An official of the trust says that other reductions will follow. The cut in rates is thought to be the result of the recent crusade against the trust by Attorney General Maloney.

THE PEAR MIDGE.

The Damage Done by This Pest and the Best Way to Hold It In Check.

The pear midge is one of the insects which have been introduced into the United States within recent years and are causing a good deal of injury in the eastern states.

The adult insect or fly is described as much resembling a diminutive mosquito. It makes its appearance very early in the season before the pear blossoms open. The female deposits her eggs in the latter by piercing the petals or the calyx. The midge larvae live on the substance of the pear tissue, destroying the seed and checking the growth of the fruit, which decays and drops in early summer. Our illustration shows a sound young pear and one deformed by the pear midge larva.

The great difficulty encountered in fighting this insect lies in the fact that there is no period at which it is within reach of ordinary insecticides. The eggs are laid in the bud before it opens, and the young larvae get into the heart of the fruit before it is fully formed. The adult fly does not feed and is hence beyond our reach. It is only after the injury is done that the insect goes underground and within reach of destructive agencies.

As a preventive measure it is recommended that the trees be examined as soon as the pears are well set and that every infested or suspected pear be picked off and completely destroyed, while if an orchard is generally infested the following practice is recommended.

Cultivate as usual, or if the orchard is in grass or clover plow under after June 15 as soon as may be. Top dress with kainit 1,000 pounds to the acre to benefit trees as well as to kill the insects. As soon as proper, say early in August, sow crimson clover. This will use up the potash not required by the fruit trees and will store nitrogen as well as occupy the ground. Early the following spring turn this sod under as deeply as may be proper. It should be done before the pear buds are developed in order to head off and destroy any midges then in the pupa state near the surface of the soil. This practice is at the same time the best for the benefit of the orchard.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

JOHN BULL IN AFRICA.

The Crafty Old Gentleman Now Owns About 1,400,000 Square Miles.

The latest acquisition of African territory gives Great Britain an unbroken line across the length of Africa from the Mediterranean and the Nile to the extreme point of the continent. In all, this territory, held in various ways, from Cape Colony up to the "occupation" of Egypt, is in extent about 1,400,000 square miles and has a population of 30,000,000. In the Nile valley it includes incomparably the best of north Africa. In Uganda it holds the key to the lakes of central Africa, nearly as large as our own lake system. The new treaty gives it the high land west of Lake Tanganyika, considerably higher and healthier than the eastern, in German hands.

The new conquests of the British South Africa company add the great tablelands of the interior of sub-tropical Africa, in much of which white men live. Lastly, there is Cape Colony, the only vital European settlement in all Africa. As it stands this great highway holds two-thirds of all of Africa in which Europeans can live and carry on efficient administration. It has the most fertile tract in the continent in Egypt, its healthiest in Cape Town, its greatest gold mines and the only region from which tropical Africa can be controlled.

Still more important is its relation to African water courses. A steamer can start at Alexandria and run, when the mahdi's successor is cleared away, to a point on Albert Edward Nyanza, 125 miles from Lake Tanganyika. This runs to within 70 miles of Lake Nyassa. From this lake the Shire river, broken at Murchison falls, descends to the Zambesi and the Indian ocean. From a navigable point on the Congo is less than 100 miles to Lake Tanganyika. The Aruwimi runs as near the Nile. It is possible to start at the mouth of the Zambesi and reach the mouth of the Congo or Nile with less than 200 miles of land travel, and the key and center to this great system is now in English hands.—Omaha Bee.
